

Leadership Development-A brief note

The New Standard for Leadership Development-(The Leadership Circle Profile -TLCP)- Introduction

The Leadership Circle Profile is designed to accelerate leadership effectiveness beyond traditional competency-based approaches. When it comes to developing leaders, training to enhance competencies alone does not work very well. For more rapid and lasting results, it is crucial that organizations help leaders gain deeper insight into their behaviour and what is driving it. The Leadership Circle Profile™ is the only 360 degree assessment that simultaneously provides focused competency feedback while revealing the underlying self-limiting beliefs and assumptions that shape a leader's pattern of action and habits of thought. The Leadership Circle Profile helps leaders understand the relationship between how they habitually think, how they behave, and, more importantly, how all this impacts their current level of leadership effectiveness. Once this awareness is established, leadership development can proceed. Without it, change rarely happens.

As the world becomes more complex, more competitive and keeps changing, leaders need to recognize the need to upgrade their consciousness (inner beliefs and assumptions, their perspectives, their world view). As the external environment becomes more complex, it becomes necessary to develop a more complex structure of mind as well. Otherwise they will find themselves with an operating system that is unable to cope and will crash like the old DOS used to till it was replaced by Windows. Structure drives performance, and if leaders do not create the appropriate outcome creating structure of mind, they will not be able to achieve their performance goals.

The Leadership Circle Profile is the only 360 degree profile that measures both competency and underlying beliefs/assumptions and it does so in two primary leadership domains: Creative Competencies and Reactive Tendencies.

Two Domains of Leadership

- Creative competencies are well-researched competencies that measure how leaders achieve results, bring out the best in others, lead with vision, enhance your own development, act with integrity, and encourage and improve organizational systems.

- Reactive tendencies are leadership styles that emphasize caution over creating results, self-protection over productive engagement, and aggression over building alignment. These self-limiting styles overemphasize the focus on gaining the approval of others, protecting oneself, and getting results through high control tactics.

The Leadership Circle

The information in the Leadership Circle Profile is rich, thorough, and elegantly organized to elucidate patterns and interactions among all dimensions. The leader can quickly see the whole story and gain insights into his/her creative strengths, the competencies that need development, and the deeper issues that are giving rise to the patterns of competency over/under utilization.

Like any well-crafted recipe, the ingredients come together as a complex but integrated whole. To symbolize this, the results are graphically displayed in a circle. The placement of dimensions in the circle quickly shows how all of the dimensions interact with each other. The whole picture—strengths and weakness, balance and imbalance, internal operating system, and external competency—is immediately apparent.

Effective leadership outperforms ineffective leadership, and contributes to organizational effectiveness. This is why we think leadership is a primary competitive advantage and strategic priority. The effectiveness of the leadership system in an organization determines, to a large degree, the organization’s performance, especially in volatile and uncertain business environments. No organization can perform at a level of consciousness higher than the collective consciousness of its leaders. That is why it is critical to upgrade the operating system of the collective leadership, and not just a few leaders.
